- The number of armed conflicts has increased by 10% since 2022, and the intensity of violence has also escalated.
- State-based conflicts continue to be the most prevalent type of armed conflict, accounting for 65% of all major conflicts.

- Non-state armed groups, including terrorist organizations, are responsible for 35% of all major conflicts.
- The most conflict-affected regions are the Middle East and North Africa, followed by sub-Saharan Africa and South Asia.

In-Depth Analysis

The Armed Conflict Survey 2024 provides detailed country-by-country analysis of the most significant armed conflicts, including:

- Afghanistan: The ongoing conflict between the Taliban and various anti-Taliban groups.
- Yemen: The protracted civil war between the Houthi rebels and the internationally recognized government.
- Ethiopia: The escalating conflict between federal forces and the Tigray Regional Government.
- Syria: The ongoing civil war, which has led to a humanitarian crisis.
- Ukraine: The Russian invasion of Ukraine, which has sparked a major international crisis.

Policy Implications

The Armed Conflict Survey 2024 offers valuable insights for policymakers and researchers working to resolve armed conflicts and promote global security. The report highlights the need for:

- Increased international cooperation to prevent and resolve conflicts.
- Enhanced support for peace processes and negotiations.

- Improved humanitarian assistance and protection for civilians.
- Long-term efforts to address the root causes of conflict, such as poverty, inequality, and political instability.

The Armed Conflict Survey 2024 is an indispensable resource for anyone seeking a comprehensive understanding of the global conflict landscape. This report provides valuable data, analysis, and policy recommendations that can contribute to efforts to prevent and resolve armed conflicts and promote peace and security around the world.
